

History

Founded in 1988, Community Women Against Hardship is a non-profit 501(c)3 volunteer based organization.

Programming is dedicated to providing services to low income single parents and their families. As an organization, we work hard at assessing the critical needs of each of our families, by providing them with needed resources such as transitional housing, parental skills, workshops, food, clothing, and furniture. In addition, we provide educational programs to enhance academic achievement and the chance to become gainfully employed.

Mission

Our mission is to provide personalized programs and services to enable families struggling with poverty to become self-sufficient.

The Ambassadors Our Organizational Goal

We are an arm of CWAH, who work diligently with the organization to assist in providing financial support to help implement services for their families.
